JUSTIFICATION (including impact on majors, minors, concentrations, and general education courses within the University curriculum; attach additional pages if required). Any change that impacts another Department must have a written statement (such as a copy of an email) from the Chair(s) agreeing to the change.

As part of our revisions of the French Major program, we are reducing the number of introductory literature courses from three to two. (Please see French Major rationale.) With that reduction, a reorganization of content is necessary so that two courses will now cover a larger time period than it had previously. Although the current catalogue description is the same for the three courses (326, 327, and 328), in practice, 326 is currently dedicated to Medieval and Renaissance Literature, 327 to 17th- and 18th-Century Literature, and 328 to 19th- and 20th-Century Literature. With the reduction to two courses, we have divided the content differently, whereby 327 will now cover literary texts from the 1789 to the present.

TRANSITION PLAN (describe how will students who are in Catalogs where the course is required for a major be accommodated; attach additional pages if required)

Any student who cannot meet the requirements for the Major for the catalog year of their matriculation can substitute any 300-level course for 326, 327, or 328 if necessary.
