JUSTIFICATION (including impact on majors, minors, concentrations, and general education courses within the University curriculum; attach additional pages if required). Any change that impacts another Department must have a written statement (such as a copy of an email) from the Chair(s) agreeing to the change.

ECON 384 and 482 (International economics and international finance) have closely related content. Prior to Fall 2016, the faculty members staffing the courses arranged the course material in sequence with 384 as the first course and 482 as the second course. However, staffing changes and requirements for the economics and two related majors make it preferable to divide the course material so that both courses can be taken alone or in either sequence.

TRANSITION PLAN (describe how will students who are in Catalogs where the course is required for a major be accommodated; attach additional pages if required)
